Providing Opportunities for Health, Wellness, & Connection

What is CIS?

Community Integration Services (CIS) at St. Clair County Community Mental Health (SCCCMH) helps adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) build skills, confidence, and independence both at home and in the community.

Using a person-centered, team-based approach, CIS provides structured daily programming, positive behavioral supports, life skills practice, and opportunities to connect with others. Services take place in small, low-stimulus learning environments and in community settings to support safety, comfort, and meaningful engagement.

CIS supports individuals whose needs may otherwise require more intensive or restrictive care. Our supports help people remain safely in their communities while working toward greater independence.

Our goal is to help each person participate more fully in everyday life through learning, socializing, problem-solving, and discovering activities that bring purpose and enjoyment.

Who We Serve:

CIS serves adults (18+) who:

- Live in St. Clair County
- Have an intellectual/developmental disability diagnosed before age 22
- Benefit from highly structured programming and positive behavioral supports
- Experience challenges that may make typical community programs or settings difficult

We support individuals who may have difficulty with:

- Keeping themselves safe
- Self-care
- Expressive and receptive language
- Learning new routines
- Mobility or transitions
- Making decisions independently

Transition Planning:

When individuals show increased safety, skill development, engagement, and reduced behavioral needs, they may move to less intensive supports or programs. Transitions are always guided by the individual's goals and Person-Centered Planning.
